Bicycle Enameling.

The frames we have enamelled in the past seven months all look bright and clean, and none of the enamel has chipped off. The reason is because we use nothing but the very best Cycle Baking Enamel, and apply and bake it in the same manner as in the best Eastern factories. We can enamel your wheel in many instances better than it was when new—in all cases equal to new. All colors in stock. Eastern prices.

FOOLED THE CHIEF.

He Saw the Fire Dance for the First Time.

A good story is told on the chief of the Chicago fire department. One evening about ten days ago he strolled into the Grand Opera house at Chicago and settled himself comfortably into an orchestra chair to witness the performance. He had not been seated more than ten seconds when every light in the house went out, and the stage became a mass of inky blackness. A few seconds more elapsed, when out of the surrounding darkness of the stage came a sight that caused the fire chief's hair to stand on end. A living mass of flame seemed to shoot from the surrounding darkness of the stage high up toward the "flies" of the theater, and in the very center of the fire could be seen the dim outlines of a woman's figure clad in a mist of transparent gauze, and swaying weirdly to and fro. For a moment the chief rubbed his eyes and wondered if he had been "hitting the pipe" in a moment of forgetfulness.

Then collecting his startled senses he bounded from his seat, rushed out of the theater and around to the stage door. There he was confronted with the august official who is part of every theater whose duty it is to keep chaplains and Johnnies and other persons from entering. It looked for a moment as if there was going to be a lively time between the fire chief and the stage door tender when the latter barred the way and would not let him in. The doorkeeper didn't know him, and after he made his identity known by a whispered conversation was held between the two, the result of which caused the doorkeeper to let out a laugh that was heard by the audience. The fire chief looked as if he knew the joke was on him, and he withdrew as gracefully as possible. The sight that had given him such a shock was only the new "fire dance" of Adelaide Herrman's, but it looked so realistic that the chief came near turning in an alarm of fire. He has had to pay for a good many cigars since the joke leaked out.

THAT MAGICAL PHOTOGRAPH.

Whose Characters Are Recognized as Long Lost Brothers.

The Republican at one time and another has described a certain fatal or magical photograph taken in Phoenix one Christmas four years ago. The photograph represents five or six young men in shirt sleeves reclining under the shade of palm trees endeavoring to keep cool. The photograph has been republished in papers all over the United States and has attracted a great deal of favorable attention to Phoenix as a winter resort. The magic or fatality attending the picture is this: That the characters in the foreground all but one well known young men of this city, are continually recognized as brothers of imaginative women all over the country from Maine to California and from Canada to the gulf. As has been mentioned before, J. Frank Pierce was the first victim. He was the suppositious brother of a young woman in Indiana. He succeeded in clearing himself of the charge to the entire satisfaction of some of his acquaintances. A couple of weeks ago a letter was received from Miss Mary D. Clements of Boston, Mass., in which the writer recognized another of the characters, "the tall, slender young man at the right with black hair and eyes full of fire," as her brother Joseph D. Clements. Miss Clements' claim was supported by the knowledge that her brother was actually in Phoenix at the time, as the hotel register at the Commercial shows.

There was a stranger in the group whose name was forgotten and even members of the party believed until yesterday that he might have been Clements. An old copy of the photograph was found yesterday, when it was remembered that the strangers name was Otis. "The tall, slender young man at the right with raven hair and fiery eyes" was Harry Griffin, who denies that he ever was known as Joseph D. Clements, and further alleges that he has no relatives in Boston.

PYTHIAN BANQUET.

A Demonstration Congratulatory to Chief Justice Street.

Phoenix lodge No. 2, Knights of Pythias, will give a banquet tonight at Castle hall. It will be congratulatory to Chief Justice Street, one of the foremost workers in the order. He is past chancellor of the Phoenix lodge, past grand chancellor for the territory and he has been twice chosen as supreme representative to the supreme lodge. He was first informed of the arrangements in his honor yesterday, when a committee visited him in chambers and presented him an engrossed invitation stamped with the seal of the lodge. Money has been lavishly spent in preparation for the banquet, which will be a most elaborate affair. B. A. Fickas will be toast-master. Included in the list of toasts are "Knighthood," response by Attorney-General Frazier; "A Just Reward Awaits the True and Faithful," by W. L. Tiffany; "Men Among Men," by A. A. Long.

The congratulations of the members to their judicial brother will be extended by H. M. Willis.

ANOTHER LOST BOY.

When Last Heard From He Was En Route to Phoenix.

The number of people who get lost or drop out of sight is incredible. Hardly a week passes in which one or more inquiries are not received by the city or county authorities from persons in various parts of the country regarding missing friends or relatives. An inquiry of that kind came yesterday from Mrs. Ada Martin of Oklahoma City. She wants to know where her son is. She says he left home last August to hunt his fortune accompanied by another boy from that town. The other hunter found this search more arduous and fortune more elusive than he had expected and so returned. Young Martin proceeded along what must have seemed to him to be a cold trail. He was at Winslow, this territory, on October 1 and wrote his mother that he was going to Phoenix. She has not heard from him since. She describes him as a youth of 15, five feet tall and wearing a light gray plaid suit when he left home. She hopes that the authorities when they find him will get him a job if possible, but if not that they will get him a pass to Kansas City on a stock trail. So far as is known young Martin has not come to Phoenix.

If persons with wives and mothers would write them occasionally while wandering about the country they would greatly reduce the worry and trouble prevalent in this world. But it is a singular and sorrowful fact that when a young man leaves home filled with hope which turns to ashes in a distant country, the first outward evidence of his disappointment and discouragement is his cutoff of communication with his friends. That is the way it breaks out on the average young man. One below the average will weaken and write home for help to return, content to remain there with the disgraceful stigma of failure set upon him. One above the average and stronger, will write cheerful lies about his prosperity and so gladden the souls of his friends and keep them aware of his movements. At any rate, they will think they are aware and that is better for them than to mourn him as lost or dead.

DRAMATIC DIVORCE CASE.

Appearance at Mandan of Husband and Wife From New York.

Mandan, N. D., Nov. 18.—A somewhat remarkable divorce case has just been tried in open court here by Judge Winchester. The parties are John W. Parry, late of New York, plaintiff, and Mary A. Parry, defendant. The charge was cruelty and mental suffering by reason of bickerings, nagging and the general doling of a termagant. Mr. Parry went on the stand and claimed that ever since his marriage in 1887 his wife had bothered him, and that about the year 1893 her bickerings became intolerable. His picture of how he lost flesh, was unfitted for his work as clerk in a leading wholesale drug store, where he got $2,250 a year, was touching. Mr. Parry made a good impression and stood his cross examination well. But Mrs. Parry told a different story. She insisted that in ten years there had never been even one cross word between them. She produced a couple of long, gushing letters that Mr. Parry wrote her in July, 1894, while she was crossing the ocean, for her to get on the other side, and they were glowing in their expressions of love. It also came out in evidence that since Mr. Parry's residence in Mandan a more or less pretty stenographer whom he knew in New York had spent six weeks visiting him, and that the couple had been seen together much. The judge denied the decree.

Some of the testimony of the defendant was touching. She used to be an actress, and she made an excellent witness. She said that although for months before their separation last spring the plaintiff had tried to poison her; though in her judgment his kisses and caresses for two years past had been the kisses of Judas; though he loved another woman more than he did her, yet she was willing to go back to him and lay it over again. She loved him yet, and she held her hand up and said: "As I hold my right hand up, before heaven where I hope to go, and where I hope to meet my dead child, I bear no feeling of revenge towards the plaintiff or the woman that has come in between us."

THE GRAND CANON.

The Grand Canon Stage company of Flagstaff is now prepared to handle any number of passengers for the Grand Canon. Hundreds of visitors will no doubt make this trip this summer. For all visitors who are now in Arizona, we can only say that to return home without visiting this grandest of all pieces of God's handiwork would be an act that they would always regret. The scenery cannot be surpassed in any part of the world—grand, sublime, awe-inspiring—and well worth a trip across the continent to visit. Do not miss it.

Parties holding return tickets east with stop-over privileges en route should by all means visit the Grand Canon from Flagstaff, upon their return.

Pat Sheedy on Gambling.

When asked how, if he always played a square game he could always find people he could beat, Sheedy replied: "My boy, a sucker is born every minute, and," he added, "sometimes twins."

Of all the twin suckers we know of, the greatest are: The one that believes all the best drugs and chemicals are kept by one store; and the other is the one who believes that all drug stores keep equally as good drugs and chemicals.

The claim we make is that we dispense nothing but pure drugs and chemicals, and our stock contains more good values for your money than all others. DR. G. H. KEEFER, Opera House Block.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Proclamation By the Governor of Arizona.

Another seed time and harvest have brought to the husbandman their golden reward for his labor, and another year of peace has given to the merchant and tradesman a revival of trade and a more confident hope for the future. Another year of health and prosperity has enabled all classes and professions to pursue their daily avocations with a cheering measure of success, and afforded all good citizens of the territory abundant cause for gratitude to the Giver of all good.

Now, therefore, mindful of a time honored custom, and in compliance with a recent proclamation of the president of the United States, appointing a day of national thanksgiving, I, Myron H. McCord, governor of the territory of Arizona, do hereby appoint Thursday, the 25th day of November, A. D. 1897, as a day of thanksgiving and praise, and I recommend to all the people of the territory, that, laying aside the ordinary cares and pursuits of life, they on that day repair to their usual places of worship, and in solemn assembly return thanks to Almighty God for His goodness and loving kindness to us as a people, and humbly supplicate Him for a continuance of His divine favor, to the end that civil and religious liberty, moral and material prosperity, enlightenment and free government may be vouchsafed to us for ever.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the Territory of Arizona to be affixed.

Done at the City of Phoenix this 6th day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-seven.

By the governor, MYRON H. MCCORD.

Glandoloid.

This Is What It Does.

Phoenix, A. T., Aug. 15, 1897. Your Sarsaparilla Compound called Glandoloid has been to me an invaluable tonic. I was all run down, suffering with derangement of the liver and impure blood and so weak I could hardly walk. Glandoloid has made me strong and healthy.

MRS. MATTIE J. PARKS. Our little boy, Wilber, two and a half years old, had a terrible breaking out all over his face, head and neck, and formed large blisters which spread and run. One bottle of your Glandoloid completely cured him in two weeks.
